

1. We thought we were sailors parading on streams,
then came the jailors of our fading-on dreams;
some never left safe shores or dipped their oars into the seas.
2. Then night disaster as though it sought us came.
I went right past her, had not even caught her name;
the one I should seek for life & love to please.

BRIDGE I: Then came the springtime
with blossoms in the air.
A sacred place in time & space
to risk life & love – if we'd dare.
Then for the first time
abandoning every care
dreams set the pace, we bet the race
as the sea of destiny carried us there.

3. On the sea of life lived day-to-day
sailing on through strife we went astray;
storm and thunder – wonder how we'd survive.
4. We clashed with fate and vied 'gainst destiny,
crashed the gate and tried every test we'd see;
but made it through to me & you still alive.

BRIDGE II: Through the pages -- worn & torn,
battle-scarred deep inside.
But did we all choose, whether win or lose,
when we took the ticket for this ride?
Through the ages – war-torn
soldiers who never cried.
But how belied by their hearts' suicide
that didn't live life fully till they died.
[WHISPERED]: "As we did."

[REPEAT VERSE 4]

[TAG]: Ever comes the springtime
with blossoms in the air.
Live it full, live it free
so that destiny... can take you there. . .
