

INSTRUMENTAL INTRODUCTION *

1. Happiness is a fleeting dream, a living butterfly flitting scheme-to-scheme.
Takes the nectar of the heart to a tart flower, even if it lasts but an hour.
Happiness is the glitter of the sun,
a drop splashed sometime in the life of everyone.
Then elusively a shadow's cast from its tower, doused in a cumulus shower.

Make me happy if just for a moment.....tonight.
Though we know it won't last,
this moment is still.....all right.

2. If we wait for the grand ideal, of our dreams we believe can someday be real.
We get to the end of each passing day, as a more, mere empty display.
If we don't grab it as it passes by, we get robbed by a subtle, seductive lie.
And invested time is our only array, upon a whole life stolen away.

So...REPEAT HOOK

3. Happy dreams we once pursued, turned out to be a need, to be ever-renewed, by the choice of a heart not clinging to save, the love that we already gave.
Happy aspirations, we, had sought to set our longing free, from tomorrow's awaiting grave, of goals that only enslave.

So...REPEAT HOOK

4. Happiness is a fleeting dream, a living butterfly flitting scheme-to-scheme.
Takes the nectar of the heart to a tart flower, even if it lasts but an hour.
If we don't grab it as it passes by, we get robbed by a subtle, seductive lie.
And invested time is our only array, upon a whole live wasted away...
