

1. Of all life's joys and exhilarating things,
the heart's fondest toys and ecstasies it brings.
Of all love's wonders, tastes and awes and "wows!",
sweet memories of the past, sweeter treasures of the nows.
The one thing above all else that shall endure,
the foremost thing I was born to do for sure:
I WAS BORN TO PLEASE HER.

2. Of all the dreams that outlasted my giving,
that flowed into streams that became my sea of living.
When all is said and done, and it all boils down to one-- just one last gleaning, that holds the final meaning.
The last thing standing, without doubt or demure,
the thing most precious, most proven, most pure,
is, I WAS BORN TO PLEASE HER.

3. And what, in the end, is to become of all this?
A touch, a sigh -(what treasure!)- a caress, a breathless kiss!
Of life's best things, in the heart where passion's kept,
when all is stripped down to love's most meaningful precept.
I confess it, willingly, not merely to infer,
a lifetime debt of love-to-give, I gladly incur,
for, I WAS BORN TO PLEASE HER.

In the sharing of your bliss...
In the paradise of your kiss...
The untarnished love we'd miss,
if we'd settle for less than this --

Take my heart!
Take my soul!
Take my all!
Don't pass this by! Woman, it's you I'm talking to (when I tell you this is true)*
If there's just one thing I was put on this earth to do:
I WAS BORN... (since the veil was torn)...
I WAS BORN...TO PLEASE... YOOOOOOUUUU.
