

INTRODUCTION

*It could be worse, as we bring the curse;
It could get worse...

1. The tail's become the head; the head is now the tail.
Already 'cross the land, we hear the sufferers' wail.
Mothers standing over graves, daughters fill each jail.
Infrastructure's rotted out, 'cause spiritual systems fail.

HOOK But it could be worse, as we bring the curse; it could get worse:
As bad as it has gotten, from the spoiled to the rotten;
It could be worse, as we bring on the curse, it could get worse...

2. With the head now the tail, and the tail at the head;
the curses are upon us justly, just as Yahweh said.
But fuller yokes of bondage wait, right where we are led,
by rebelling against all the blessings we could have instead.

BRIDGE O Israel, my Nation, we have bought by resignation the coming devastation; our promised compensation.
The plagues we're seeing now, mixing ruinous ingredients would turn to tender mercies, if we'd turn back to obedience.
But it will get worse, till He lifts the curse,
that we dictate and are making worse.

3. We've been given roadmaps, tools, guides, and signs.
Every step of the perfect path was well-defined with lines that guided and remind us of our Maker's grand designs;
And the greatest of all liberties, within His law's confines.

REPEAT HOOK

4. And in our greatest suffering, the worst possible pain;
So much destroyed we can't conceive life worth living again.
With no worldly solution to save the dreams all slain;
We're left one glimpse of blessing to remember and retain:

How it could be worse, our just deserts,
because we've brought this curse...
As bad as it has gotten, from the spoiled to the rotten;
It could be worse, as we deserve for bringing the curse...
It could be worse...

REPEAT INTO FADEOUTEND

* Talking or whispered words over fading-in music.
 Repeat this last line of hook, each time.
