

JUST YOUR LOVE (WOULD BE ENOUGH)

6-23-14 (2)
(#65)

REFRAIN: Soft & tender, so tender to the touch
I must surrender, a little, if not much.
In the world I live in, reckless and tough,
just your love, just your love,
(just your love) — would be enough.*

1. You reached into my heart
even though you weren't trying,
except to save withering love
you thought right, might be dying.
And if I didn't say I was astonished I'd be lying . . .
— Blow me away — But will you stay ?
Beyond today ?

[REPEAT REFRAIN: "She's so soft & ..."]

2. You came from Colorado
to the Golden State, (they say);
bypassing San Francisco and with no thought of L. A.
And with no thought of tomorrow
we jammed a lifetime into a day living for the moment — till she flew away —
she couldn't stay.

[INSTRUMENTAL OF REFRAIN SECTION]

3. Now my heart's near the Rockies,
it isn't that I mind.
Better there, free with her,
than alone here with me confined.
Growing evermore fond, of this bond
not designed to bind . . .
Where it will lead, I couldn't say,
but come stay, another day.

[REPEAT REFRAIN]

(Continued)

JUST YOUR LOVE (WOULD BE ENOUGH)
(Continued)

(6-23-14)

4. Don't want to break her heart
nor any part not yet broken,
that might reveal beneath a seal
a secret, silent hopin'
or feelings she nor I would hide
in words felt, but not spoken —
Come play, come pray, come what may,
come stay another day . . .

TAGS: And another day . . . and another day . . .
as they turn into another day . . .
Where just your love would be enough,
because just your love – (honest)*
would be enough.

[END]

Written: June 22-23, 2014

* Words in parentheses spoken, not sung