

OH JULIE

8-30-13

CHORUS I: Oh Julie, please let it be the second miracle in my life.
The first was when you won my heart,
the second will be when you become my wife.

1. So, when was it broken?
That heart of which no one's spoken.
But it's more that just taken that it's wounded — will it ever heal?
Will you ever grow past that stage
before you go to your life's last page?
A lonely heart's such an unjust wage to pay, in delay, what you long to feel.

[TURNAROUND]

CHORUS II: Oh Julie, are you yet really free?
Why would you be seeking something more?
So much love you impart, but from a broken heart that can't let love in when it knocks at your door.

2. Can no one else see you?
And know what you need to free you.
I know, regardless what you've been through—the power of love 'll find a way.
I have that love inside me now that knows just what you need somehow,
I've already put my hand to the plow—
no turning back, love's here to stay.

[TURNAROUND]

CHORUS III: Oh Julie, please help me help you find fulfillment in your heart.
Trust, you'll find again, in your heart's mine way back when,
together, a little at a time, let's make a start.

3. I know your heart is tough and tender,
and you won't go where you must surrender hope fulfilled by an unknown sender
— a vague image deep in your mind.
But the bringer of the most important thing,
the crown of your life's best blessing is here, right in front of you, it's happening—what you searched your whole life to find.

[TURNAROUND]

REPEAT CHORUS I: So, Julie...

[END]

Written: August 30, 2013