

THIS JOURNEY ALL ALONE
(Hunger Games)

12-22-13 (2)

1. Even if you never come to see me again
or if they carry me out in a box toward home;
One way or another,
though abandoned by my last brother
— ain't gonna make this journey all alone.
2. Those hell-bent on stealing life from humble ones they seek as prey thrown in with the lost who went astray.
Each soulless, twice dead hypocrite as consummate as it could get — the most incorrigible criminals of our day.

BRIDGE: Hunger games! They lust for war!
It rules their very souls down to the core.
Yet these are the “special ones”
condemning your only sons for what they exempt themselves from from their own congressional floor.
It's not okay!
It's not okay!!

3. Even if the world should end
and all this proves to be a dream,
and nothing was ever as it seemed to seem.
I'd never become like one of them because I'm not one of them
besides destruction, their whole life's purpose was nothing.
4. Even though my whole life
had been stolen in a nightmare,
I will, still, find my way back home.
And someone walks each step with me
from here into eternity
I haven't made this journey all alone.

[REPEAT BRIDGE]

TAG: ...Even though it's not okay that they took everything away
I didn't end the journey all alone...

[END]

* Tag is sung fading away, from the start

Written: December 22, 2013 (2)