

THOUGH I NEVER KNEW YOU

10-31-15

(#77)

HOOK: I never knew you, never say
I never knew you . . . *

1. Though I never knew you . . .
the thought of you was enough.
Though I would never woo you —
those days were too wild and tough.
But these days I wonder if I may have had the right stuff,
and could be holding you in my arms right now
and forever.
2. How I longed to undo you . . .
you probably never even knew.
I could see your soul right through you
— did you ever even have a clue ?
And how I was passionately crazy about you,
love and longing vibrant as the sun.
It still pulsates like fireworks on the moon —
it still fires my gun.

[INSTRUMENTAL]

3. Though I never got to kiss your face,
I still do in my dreams.
Though I know it feels so out of place
when this love overflows from its seams.
Did you ever sense my secret longing ?
Could you read it in my eyes — just a trace ?
Did you think all that passion was something time could just erase ?

BRIDGE: Don't harness your youthful, longing soul
when she's standing right in front of you !
Trample down whatever makes you hesitate, don't hold back, do it ! Follow through !
[REPEAT HOOK]

4. Will I ever come to know you ?
Is it ever too late ? . . . never say it's too late.
What our passions make us go through . . .
but what we positively do, trumps even fate.
As life unfolds into fields of goals,
endless pastures, each one an open gate . . .
go find her, go tell her all my life I knew her heart — never to late, it's never too late.

[INSTRUMENTAL FADEOUT WITH HOOK OVERLAPPING IN BACKGROUND]

[END]

Written: October 31, 2015 [M, L, G]

* Hook repeated copiously and added where fitting,
between verses; repetitively at end of bridge, etc.