

TUCKED AWAY INSIDE A DREAM
(Wake Up Sleeping Giant)

8-9-15
(#63)

1. How weird the scene:
can't tell if it's real or played on a mental movie screen.
Tryin' to get home
seems forever been runnin' through this theme.
I have the keys
and been tryin' for years to get back to you.
Can't find the door —
still in the daze of sleep tucked away inside a dream . . .
(Wake up sleeping giant
from the days of slumber folded inside a dream.)

[INSTRUMENTAL]

2. Been here before:
it's a strange and dreary sense of déjà vu.
Running through a valley,
or a forest, a passage tryin' to get to you.
Something blocks my way —
my vision's obscured and I strain but can't hear a word.
Do you know I'm there ?
'cross the veil in the daze of sleep tucked away inside a dream . . .
(Awaken, sleepy giant,
in your days of slumber still tucked away inside a dream.)

[INSTRUMENTAL]

BRIDGE: Wake up, awaken you sleepy giant,
come out of your coma-induced dream.
Awaken, find your power,
wield it in your finest hour
and slay the foe of this ever-recurring theme.
Wake up ! Awaken ! Wake up ! Awaken !
Wake up ! Awaken ! Wake up ! Awaken !

(Continued)

TUCKED AWAY INSIDE A DREAM
(Continued)

(8-9-15)
(#63)

3. Haunt you in your dreams ?

Do you know if you're dreaming or awake — (in your sleep) ?

Which reality

has become the one you can see — more clearly ?

A specter in the way,

a perpetual deflector of eternal delay;

can you cross through the veil

while in the daze of sleep tucked away inside a dream ?

(Wake up sleeping giant,

You can pierce the veil from your jail tucked away inside your dream.)

You can pierce the veil from your jail tucked away inside your dream.

[INSTRUMENTAL AND FADE OUT]

[END]

Written: August 9, 2015 [G, M]