

WHAT ARE THE CHANCES ?

5-6-14
(#45)

1. What are the chances that advances never taken . . .
For love, out of fear there you might fall
and tear you from your dreams of adventures `round the world living out true love stories with every other girl ?
Do you ever reminisce what might have happened had you and Suzy kissed in the hall ?
That first day she sat in your lap and you later pressed up close against the wall . . .

2. What love story would your life have written
had you not hesitated when you saw her there ?
— not ignored how your heart soared
and you were smitten
by a power so awesome it had you scared ?
Where would it have led, changing history ?
What would have happened instead of what became of your life unfolding, molding destiny with mystery
— by one mere move, nothing would have been the same !

3. Would you have been happier with chances never taken ?
Or is the grass just always greener over there ?
Would you long for the life you have,
had you forsaken
what's yours now, would you trade it ? — would you dare ?
Could you ever know where that other path may lead ?
Was your destiny set in stone from the start ?
Would your quest to be free leave you alone and in need longing still to fulfill an empty heart ?
