

My state of indigestion
poses just one burning question, is this a bad habit I can kick?
The Wonder Boy isn't offering us choices,
and this white bread makes me sick (blaa!)
White bread makes me sick, blaa!

Well, ya say I'm being gross
but it beats U.S. French Toast
by a host of the pseudo health-food kick.
While rows of "John Dough's"
shout at the top of their voices:
"that white bread makes me sick, blaa!"
that white bread makes me sick, blaa!"

What's the world coming to?
This dough is just a poor man's glue.
Is this what they meant hey:
"get on the stick!"
Now, don't let me hear those repulsive gastro noises
if the white bread makes you sick, blaa!
If the white bread makes you sick, blaa!

So, ya really think it's funny, sonny,
-yea, right on the money, honey,
so slippery in the dough, you're pretty slick.
But you still can only dream about driving those Rolls Royces.
while white bread makes you sick, blaa!
The white bread still makes you sick, blaa!

While we may be a customer
we surely ain't no "buster"
And we're not a willing client, nor a trick.
I can stand the paranoia and the cacaphonous noises,
but the white bread makes me sick, blaa!
still, that white bread makes me sick, blaa!
No matter what I do,
the white bread makes me sick, blaa!
Even if they lobotomize me,
the white bread still makes me sick, blaa!
I just can't handle it,
white bread still makes me sick, blaa!
Take it away from me,
that white bread makes me sick, BLAAAHHHHHH!

[Close with short instrumental riff]

END

1800 Market St., #130
San Francisco, CA
USA 94102

TIME:

DATE WRITTEN:
4-20 to 4-23-96

STYLE/ARTIST/MARKET:
Novelty, "Wierd Al
Yankovich" style.
First silly novelty
Jingle